

It is clear to me, as President of Bonfils Blood Center Foundation here in Denver, that the multi-ownership media rules being considered, which have spawned the likes of Clear Channel Communications, is NOT in the best interests of consumers, business leaders or the region's economy. It is an outrage that our public airwaves are being sold off to fewer and fewer voices at exactly the time in our country's history that diversity of opinion in the media is so crucial. You should be ashamed of your pandering to corporate interests if you allow additional ownership of media outlets beyond what is already a despicable set of rules which have plundered the concept of a free and open society. -DGL
